Dear Parent(s)/Carer(s)

As part of our Year 9 students' Personal Development offer, they have worked with an external provider today called 'Humanutopia.' The focus of the day has been 'Who am I?' More information can be found using this link: humanutopia | empowering young people to make positive change

The reason I am writing to you is to let you know that earlier this morning, they have taken part in a 'sharing session.' During this session, some of our students have shared their personal negative experiences in a confident and safe way, whilst the rest of the year group listened and learned about other students' experiences. In parts, this became emotional for some of our students but will have a lasting impact. The rest of the day is about building students up to prepare for their future. We wanted to let you know in case your child shares their experience from today with you.

If you have any questions or would like more information, please don't hesitate to contact me.

Your faithfully

Stuart Holland
